NONI (Botanical Name - Morinda Citrifolia)

Hawaiian Noni has been naturalized on all the main Hawaiian islands. It is believed to have been brought by the Polynesian colonizers in their voyaging canoes. Noni can be found growing at sea level near inland tide pools where brackish water is found (ocean water mixed with fresh water) all the way to 1500 feet in elevation. It grows in fairly recent lava flows as well as lowlands and grasslands.
